INTRODUCTORY NOTE.

ANY years ago the subject of ancestry began to attract attention. The compiler of these records became interested in it along his Travis line, during a long illness. He had known some of his relatives bearing the name of Travis, brothers and sisters of his mother's mother, but all, with one exception, had passed off the stage ere this inquiry began; so but very little information could be had from the immediate family as to their ancestors, beyond their uncles and aunts.

By much patient research and travel, extending over eighteen years, and a large expenditure of money, the results here recorded have been gained, and gratification is had in tracing the line unbroken from Henry Travers who arrived from London, England, in the Ship "Mary and John" at Agawam, now Ipswich, in 1634, down to the present time, and to find representatives of the family showing their love of country in every emergency requiring patriotic service, from King Philip's war to the war of the Rebellion. The descendants of Henry Travers have thus had part and parcel in the development of our beloved New England, from its infancy.

James Travis, born in Newbury, Mass., in 1645, the only son of Henry Travers, was one of the early settlers of Brookfield, Mass., in 1668, and a petitioner for its incorporation "Oct y^e 10 1673." He probably left Brookfield with his family before the Indian troubles there culminated, but no record has been found to show where his family went, nor of his or their return to Brookfield.

Later his children were in Framingham and Sherborn, and later still his descendants were in Holliston, Natick, Sudbury, Waltham and Weston, in Massachusetts. One branch located in Deering, N. H., and their descendants in that State are numerous. The name is now well represented in Natick, Framingham, and adjoining towns in Massachusetts, and commands respect.

To the painstaking labor of Mr. Henry A. May, a genealogist of experience, I am much indebted for results attained.

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

TRAVERS — D'ESTRIVERS — TRAVERSE — TRAVIS.

ENGLISH NOTES.

TRAVERS, from Trevieres between Bayeux and Caen, Normandy. The name continued in Normandy, where Ranulph de Clinchamp, after 1138, assumed the name of Travers.

In the time of the Conqueror, Robert de Travers or d'Estrivers, Baron of Burgh-upon-Sands, married the daughter of Ranulph de Meschines, Lord of Cumberland, and sister of Ranulph Bricasard, who succeeded his cousin Richard d'Abrincis, as Earl of Chester, in 1119.

He received in fee from his father-in-law the office of Hereditary Forester of Inglewood, which passed through his only child Ibría to Ralph de Engayne, and from the Engaynes to the Morvilles, who transmitted it to the Multons and Dacres.

The badge of this office, the jagged branch, is over and over introduced in the Chapel of Naworth Castle, which is so rich with arms and cognizances.

(Hist. of Battle Abbey Roll, Vol. III, pages 203-4.)

“The forestership of Inglewood was so honorable and grand, so great a command, there is no wonder that the family should hold its claim as perfect.”

(Hutchinson's Cumberland.)

Robert d'Estrivers bore “Argent, three bears sable ;” and it is believed first used the “jagged branch” as his badge.

There remain in Dacre churchyard the figures of four bears, about five feet high, sitting on their haunches, and clasping a rude pillar, or a ragged staff, on which two of the animals rest their heads. The other two carry on their backs the figure of a lynx, one in the attitude of attempting to rid himself of the animal on his shoulders, with his head twisted, and a paw cast behind him.

The name of Travers appears in “Domesday,” as from Hants ; and it is several times repeated in the “Liber Nigre.”

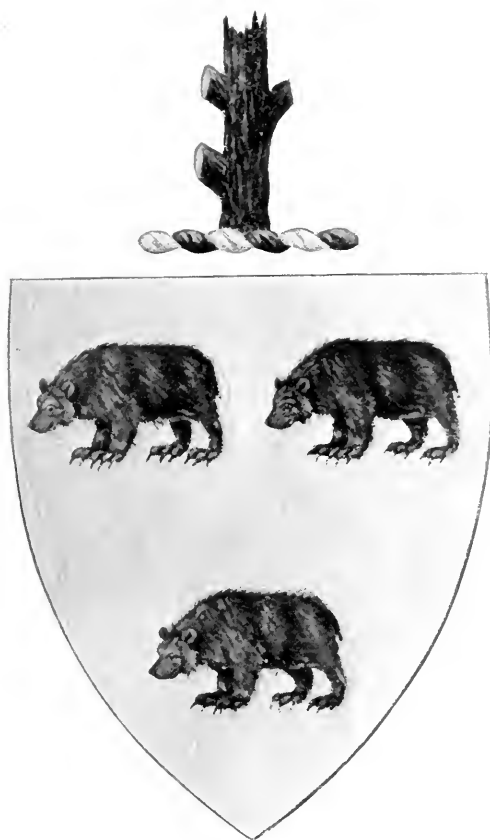

Ralph de Travers, 1165, held the See of Worcester.

Bertram and Pagan de Travers were of Evesham Abbey, and Robert de Travers of Henry Lupel, in Somersetshire.

Hugh de Travers was of Lincoln, and Warin de Travers of York, 1189-1190.

Walter de Travers paid a fine in Buckinghamshire in 1197.

(Hunter's Fines.)

TRADERS

The name of Roger de Travers occurs in Buckinghamshire and in Bedfordshire, in 1202.

(Rot. Cancellarii.)

In Yorkshire the family was clearly of considerable importance.

When Robert de Lacy was expelled the realm, the Honour of Pontefract was bestowed by Henry I, on "Henry Traverse, who being shortly mortally wounded by one Pain, a Servant of his own, caused himself to be shorn a Monk, and so died within three days."

(Dugdale.)

Two of the name, John and Laurence, were pardoned as adherents of the Earl of Lancaster in 1318.

John was twice Commissioner of Array of the Honour of Pontefract, and superintended the equipment of the levies in 1316 and 1323.

Laurence, in the latter year, was one of the Subcustodes of the peace in the Wapentake of Aimunderness, and a burgess returned for Preston in 1727.

(Palgrave's Parliamentary Writs.)

Dalton-Travers, about half a mile south of Newsham, in the North Riding, "traxit appellationem suam a familia de Travers, ejus olim per plures annos domini, licet eorum jam memoria diu obsoleverit."

(Gale's Richmondshire.)

Robert, son of Robert, son of Warin de Travers (probably the Warin of the Pipe Roll of 1189), gave some land in Dalton to Marrick Priory.

(Mon. Ebor., 270.)

Another of the family, Thomas Travers, was one of the Conservators of the Peace for Lancashire in 1320.

TRAVERS OF HAMPSHIRE.

The earliest record of Travers in England is found in "Domesday" Book 1, F. 52 b. :—

"Terra Willielmi filij Stur — In Bovecome Hund., Hantescire. Isdem Willielmus tenet dimidiam hidam in Egrafel, et Travers tenet de Willielmo. Hanc tenuit Vluiet in paragio. Tunc et modo se defendit pro dimidia hida. Terra est I carucota; et ibi est in dominio cum uno bordario, et una acra prati, et dimidia. Valet 10 solidos."

It does not appear that the early settler remained long in Hampshire; probably he went north, and obtaining land in Lancashire, founded the family of Travers of Notsby. During the reigns of Henry III — Edw. II, we do not meet with the name in this county. From 43–50 Edw. III, one Richard Travers was Rector of Blendeworthe, Hants; but his brother Thomas Travers, Knt., lived in Kent or Middlesex, and owned the Manors of "Roughull" and "Halghle," together with lands at Ditton and East Malling.

HENRY TRAVERS

OF NEW ENGLAND.

HENRY TRAVERS, as he wrote his name, came from London in the ship "Mary and John," of London, Robert Sayers Master, "early in 1634," and from the old Book of Orders, belonging to the Port of Southampton, the following was copied. This book was in the Custom House in Portsmouth, N. H., Dec. 6, 1745, and the copy is upon the records of Newbury :—

"The names of such passengers as took the Oathes of Supremacy and Allegiance to pass for New England in the Mary and John of London, Robert Sayers Master." The dates and names follow :

The immigrants in the preceding list came to Agawam [Ipswich], and staid there one year. Those against whose names appears an obelisk [†], went the next year, 1635, to Quascacunquen, now Newbury.

In the records of the First Parish of Newbury is this entry:—“Granted to Henry Travers 6 Acres of Salt Marsh, be it more or less, in the Great Marsh, being bounded by William Moody on the west, and the Common on the east, north and south.” He was also granted a house lot of half an acre near the First Landing Place, bounded by John Cheney south, highway north, The Green west and Merrimack east. Also 4 acres bounded by John Emery on the south and by Anthony Emery north, Jo Moulton west and the Merrimack Street east. The Merrimack Street was evidently changed, as litigation followed, and Henry Travers was granted an extension eastward. He also exchanged his house lot at the old town, on Little Hill, for four acres at the new town, on South Merrimack Street. No record has been found giving the date of his marriage to Bridgett, whose maiden name was Fitts, and who was probably a sister of Robert Fitts, who was in Salisbury in 1640, and removed to Ipswich, where he died in 1665, leaving a widow, Grace, and two or more children. Neither has any evidence been found that Henry had a wife previous to his marriage to Bridgett; yet he may have had a wife in England before coming to America in 1634. Some writer has said that Bridgett was his second wife.

He came to Newbury, as clearly appears, in 1635, and the record shows the birth of a daughter, Sarah, in 1636, who married Aug. 30, 1654, Nicholas Wallington. The birth of a son James is also recorded as of April 28, 1645. It also appears that Henry Travers went to sea, and to London in 1648, and never came back, leaving here his wife Bridgett, a daughter Sarah, and a son James. He left a will behind, as follows:—

This 26th day of July, 1648, I Henrie Travers of Newbury, having occasion to go to Sea and know not whether I shall live to Com againe, I do by this present declare my last Will and Testament, as followeth.

Richard Knights testified upon oath that this was the act & deed of Henry Travers, & William Ilesly upon oath testified that he was calld to be a Witness to such a disposall of his estate & believes it to be his hand.

The will is apparently in the handwriting of Henrie Travers, and has never been recorded, but simply filed.

The inventory of his estate in detail follows, viz. :

land from mee seaven years ago, and left mee two children ; my Daughter was of the age of ten years, and my son not full three years of age. He then made his will and gave my daughter a Cow and a Heifer. to be paid to her at twelve years old, and he gave to my son also at the same age of twelve years, two Steers and 4 Akers of Upland and 8 Akers of Marsh, and all the household stuff we had, only he gave me a bed and a Coverlet which was very meane, and also I and my children was very mean in apparell, and this was the whole estate of my husband. I had not so much as an house to dwell in, and left me also five pounds in debt. And since he went I have not heard of him but once, which is five years since.

The honored Court may be pleased to understand that since my husband went away I have paid the five pounds and laid out about twenty more for building — and breaking up the land, and also my daughter being now marryed I have payed to her two heifers. Now my humble petition to this hon'ble Court is that they would bee pleased to consider this my Condition, that I may enjoy my house and land till my son shall be of the age of one and twenty years, and after to have the thirds during my natural life, and so I shall ever pray for your happyness and shall rest

BRIDGETT TRAVERS.

Bridgett, the widow of Henry Travers, married Richard Window, of Gloucester, Mass., Mar. 30, 1659, and this took the family to Gloucester. His will was proved 27—4—1665, "dated the : 2 of may : 1665." The estate of Bridgett Window was in probate Nov. 9, 1673, and administration was granted to Nicholas Wallington and James Travis, Nov. 26, 1675. Inventory £26 : 1 : 1. The deposition of Samuel Worcester and Elizabeth, his wife, about the estate of widow Window, mentions her son-in-law Nicholas Wallington, her grand-child Sarah Wallington, and her son James Travis. "Taken upon oath the 25th, of Nov., before Nathaniel Saltonstall, Commissioner."

In Vol. IV, part 2, of Massachusetts Bay Records, 1666, 23 May, there appears the following : —

In answer to the petition of Bridgett Window and her sonne James Travis, the Court having considered the grounds of their petitions doe order that the County court for Essex doe give the petitioner and his mother such relief as on a further hearing of their complaints may appear just and regular.

There is also upon the record, page 171, as follows : —

James Travis £30 allowed to him from the estate of his father by the will of Richard Window of 1665. We are informed it was in the hands of Nich^{ls} Warrington (Wallington), it being his Portion.

These documents, here reproduced in part, seem to show conclusively that Henry Travers had wife Bridgett at least soon after coming to Newbury, even if she did not come with him, as the birth of a daughter is recorded in 1636, and a son James, "born y^e 28th of April, 1645." These two children are referred to in his will, and are also called her children by Bridgett, and are the only ones that are named by either.

- 2 I Sarah, born in Newbury in 1636; married Aug. 30, 1654, Nicholas Wallington, who is sometimes called Wallingford and Warrington. He is described as "a poor boy," one of the passengers in the Confidence from Southampton in 1638. He was a short time at Rowley, about 1663. A free-man in 1670. Later he was a seaman for several years, and was captured by Barbary pirates and never returned.

3-4 (II) JAMES TRAVIS (Travers), son of Henry, born in Newbury, Mass., "y^e 28th. of April 1645," as recorded by the Hon. Edward Rawson, afterward Secretary of State; married April 8, 1667, Mercy [Marsye] Pearce, whose birth is recorded in the records of Gloucester, Mass., as "Marsye born fforsthe [first] weak in the 7th. mo. 1650." She is supposed to have died, a widow, in Holliston, Dec. 11, 1744. She was the daughter of John and Elizabeth Pearce of Gloucester, who were married Nov. 4, 1643, when he is described as a husbandman.

Her mother, Elizabeth, died July 3, 1673, and John married (2nd), Mrs. Jane Stanwood (Stanwood), widow of Philip Stanwood who died 7: 6: 1672 (Aug. 7, 1672, O. S.), leaving five children. John Pearce, the father of Mercy, died Dec. 15, 1695, leaving the daughter and a son John, who died Aug. 18, 1706. John Pearce, the father of Mercy, was of Gloucester, a freeman in 1651. John, the brother of Mercy, born July 14, 1653, married Mary Ratchell, daughter of Robert Ratchell and Judith, his wife, of Boston, where Mary was born the last of Aug., 1652.

In 1667 James Travis (as he is written, and the generations that follow have generally spelled it "Travis," instead of "Travers," as Henry wrote it,) bought land of Samuel Peacock of Boston, and the frame of a dwelling house near "Poles" (a local name in Gloucester). In 1668, after the birth of their daughter Elizabeth, who married Nathaniel Haven of Framingham, he sold his house and land to Thomas Millett, senior, and he appears in Gloucester no more, of record.

At that time they removed to Brookfield, Mass., and had probably left there before the town was destroyed by the Indians in 1676. One account says he returned to Essex County, and died there. In Barry's History of Framingham, it is said that he probably moved to Holliston. Nothing has been found upon any record to verify the idea of his return to Essex County; and the fact that his children, and probably his widow, remained in and about Framingham and Holliston, would tend to disprove it. His house lot in Brookfield consisted of thirty acres, and was located on the easterly side of Foster's hill. He had deceased prior to 1717, as at that time his son-in-law, Benjamin Whitney, on behalf of the heirs, applied for a grant of land in their father's right, in Brookfield, and received sixty acres near Brookfield Saw Mill.

This application was dated June 17, 1717, and was granted by the committee Nov. 17, 1717. (Grants 71,625.)

The application by the heirs was for the equivalent of the original grant, which was considered forfeited, and which consisted of fifteen acres of "Meadow" and thirty acres of "Upland." The sixty acres granted was bounded on all sides by the Commons. The grant was conditioned "that the heirs pay all charges to the publick, to the town, ministry and meeting-house, which have arisen in said town ever since the year 1715, the beginning of said year, and so on from time to time forever." Allotment dated the 5th of July, in the year of His Majesty's reign, Anno Dom.,

1717. The Book of the Proprietors of Brookfield has a full description of the land. The mention of the year 1715 in the grant may indicate the year of his death, of which no record has been found.

A deed of all the lands of which James Travis, formerly of Brookfield, died seized, and all allotments and town right, was recorded, dated June 17, 1717, and reads thus: —

Benjamin Whitney of Sherborn, County of Middlesex, husbandman, and Mary my wife, one of the daughters of James Travis formerly of Brookfield ——. That said Benjamin Whitney for himself, and Attorney for James Travis of Sherborn, husbandman, the only surviving son of the deceased, and of Nathaniel Haven of Framingham and Elizabeth his wife, the only other daughter of said deceased, and the said Mary Whitney for herself, and in her own right, for the sum of £15 paid to the said Benjamin Whitney by Thomas Barnes of Brookfield — land and meadow that the deceased died seized of, in the township of Brookfield. All of the land and allotments of land and other town rights of James Travis deceased.

(Signed)

Benjamin Whitney and wife Mary
James Travis
Nathaniel Haven
Elizabeth his Wife

Being the only surviving children of James Travis deceased.

Aug. 21, 1734, the above named Mary Whitney (but now Mary Frink) personally appeared and acknowledged the above.

If James Travis had gone back from Brookfield to Essex County, from whence he came, and died there, it hardly seems probable that in this deed of his heirs he would have been described simply as "formerly of Brookfield." At the date of June 22, 1717, Benjamin Whitney was described as of Sherborn, as well as James Travis, his brother-in-law, the son of James Travis, formerly of Brookfield, while Nathaniel Haven is described as of Framingham; but in a deed to Benjamin Whitney May 22, 1716, and again Mar. 27, 1717, James, the son of James, is described as of Framingham.

Temple's History of North Brookfield, speaking of the laying out of the home lots, says: "The deed ran from Shattockquis, consented to by Mettawompe, to Ensign Cooper of Springfield, and was dated Nov. 10, 1665. The home lots must have been distributed subsequent to 1667, and probably in 1668, and James Travis was given Lot 12.

"Oct. y^e 10, 1673," James Travis signed a petition "To The Highly Hon'd. y^e Gen'el Co'rte of the Massachusetts" to incorporate the Town of Brookfield.

Of the children of James and Mercy [Marsye] (Pearce) Travis, the first child, Elizabeth, afterward Mrs. Haven, was born in Gloucester on 8th, 12th, (Feb. 8,) 1667, Old Style; during that year they removed to Brookfield, and there they were living at or about the time of the massacre, so that it is probable that all of their other children were born in Brookfield; but no record of their births has been found, though much search has been made. The petition for land shows and identifies his only surviving children, and indicates that no probate was ever had upon his estate, and this is corroborated by the joint deed of his heirs.

James Travis took part in King Philip's war, and on Feb. 22, 1675-6, as appears in the Mass. Archives, Vol. II, page 158, he was in a detachment of eighteen men under command of Ensign Tymberleggs (Timber lake), which detachment was consolidated with another company of forty-six men, the whole being under the command of Capt. William Turner. The record says they "cleared" at Marlborough, for the relief of Quabogue (Brookfield). A list of men identical with the names of the detachment of eighteen men, has the name of Edward Crick (Creek) in place of Henry Tymberleggs (Timberlake), and the record says "as they came from Marlborough Feb. 29, 1675-6."

The combined commands of Capt. Moseley, Capt. William Turner and Capt. Whitpoll, with three hundred men, were under the chief command of Maj. Savage. A large part of Capt. Turner's original company, after arrival at Quabogue, marched home to Boston April 7, 1676. Capt. Turner gathered his remaining men — with volunteers, having a total force of one hundred and fifty — and took post at Hatfield. He marched from Hatfield to the Falls (Turner's), twenty miles through the woods, past the ruins of Deerfield, to a point just south of Mt. Adams, and defeated the Indians, taking them by surprise. He set out to return to Hatfield, and was attacked by a large party of Indians; during the conflict, Capt. Turner and thirty-six of his men were killed, and two small detachments of his force were captured.

No trace of James Travis is found after his march to Quabogue (Brookfield), until in the records of Onondaga County, N. Y., of which the present County of Oswego was formerly a part, the following entry is found:—"Oswego: James Travis was captured by the Indians in 1676, and held two years." Mass. Archives, Vol. LXIX, pages 204, 205 and 206, mention contributions taken up in Boston by Rev. John Wilson (pastor of the First Church, Boston), under date of May 28, 1678, for captives who had reached Albany.

Children :

- 5 1 Elizabeth, born in Gloucester Feb. 8, 1667-8 ; married Nathaniel Haven, born in Lynn June 30, 1664, son of Richard Haven and Susannah his wife, and was the eleventh out of a family of twelve children. Richard Haven made a will May 21, 1703, which was proved June 14, 1703. His wife Susannah had died in Lynn Feb. 7, 1682. Richard came from the West of England in 1644. Nathaniel came to Framingham as early as 1690 with his brother John ; he died July 20, 1746. One account says he married (2nd) Dec. 7, 1741, and had other children, which seems hardly probable, as he was then seventy-seven years of age.

Children, all recorded in Framingham :

- 1 Martha Haven, born April 7, 1690 ; married May 7, 1711, Samuel Wesson.
- 2 Moses Haven, born Mar. 1, 1692.
- 3 Elizabeth Haven, born Dec. 11, 1693 ; married July 12, 1720, Benjamin Nourse.
- 4 Mercy Haven, born Jan. 26, 1697 ; married April 14, 1720, Ebenezer Nourse.
- 5 Susannah Haven, born Feb. 13, 1699 ; married Jan. 12, 1714-5, Thomas Gleason, Jr.
- 6 Mariah Haven, born Sept. 4, 1701 ; admitted to church April 7, 1728.
- 7 Experience Haven, born April 23, 1703 ; married July 27, 1719, Samuel Streeter.
- 8 Nathaniel Haven, born Sept. 8, 1704 ; married June 10, 1724, Hepzibah Rugg.

- 6 2 Mercy [Mary], born probably in Brookfield; married Oct. 24, 1701, Benjamin Whitney of Framingham, later of Sherborn, born Jan. 6, 1678-9. He died, and his will was probated Sept. 25, 1718; the inventory was filed "y^e 21 Oct. 1718;" the amount of his estate being £712:3:4. He was designated by the prefix "Cornet," the officer of lowest commissioned grade in the cavalry, to whose charge the flag was confided; a rank equivalent to "Ensign" in the infantry. He gave all his movables, house and land, to his wife. In 1712 he resided in Sherborn, and petitioned Governor Dudley for leave to form a cavalry company. He left no children. He was the eleventh child of Jonathan Whitney, born in England in 1634, and Lydia Jones of Watertown, whom he married Oct. 30, 1656, daughter of Lewis Jones. Jonathan was admitted an inhabitant of Sherborn in 1679, and died there in 1702, living near Chestnut Brook. An agreement of his heirs is dated Charlestown, Jan. 21, 1714. The widow Mercy's bill is as follows, viz.: Funeral £6:18:0; Gloves £6:14:0; Wine £3:15; Doctor £1:10:0; Grave Stones £1:15:0; Paid Anne Fisher of Wrentham, £1:6:0; Pd same Fisher £2:3:6. Present in Court, Jan. 2, 1721, Lieut. Frink and his wife Mercy, the widow of "Cornet" Benjamin Whitney, deceased.

Benjamin gave most of his land to James Whitney of Sherborn.

Lieut. Thomas Frink did not survive his wife Mercy, as his estate was in probate Aug. 11, 1739; inventory, £1288:19:6, presented by his son, Rev. Thomas Frink, as executor, under date of May 6, 1740. It says: "Due to Mrs. Mary Frink, widow of Thomas Frink, late of Sudbury, deceased, as appears by an agreement between them before their marriage, the sum of £472 : 3 : 4." By his will he further gave to his wife "my house that I bought of Benjamin Allen, eighteen acres of land and a barn." He also speaks in his will of his son-in-law Abraham Briant, and his daughter Sarah Briant.

8-7 3 James, born probably in Brookfield, Mass.; married 1698-99, Mercy Leland of Sherborn. She died between Aug. 16, 1710 and 1716. He married (2nd) Nov. 18, 1745, Elizabeth Wesson.

TRADITION.

There is a tradition handed down, that one of the pioneers of the family, from whom Elijah, who died in Weston in 1824, was directly descended, was captured by the Indians, and it is given as having at least an element of truth for its foundation, for the History of Onondaga County, N. Y., says "James Travis was captured by Indians in 1676 and held two years."

The tradition runs thus: The family at this time lived in or near Barre, Mass., which was then on the frontier. The few families who lived in the neighborhood were kept constantly on the watch to guard against the Indians. The men, as a precautionary measure, carried their guns slung upon their backs, when laboring in the field. One day while James was at work with two other men, they were surrounded, surprised and captured by Indians, and he was hurried off at a tremendous pace. The Indians forced him to travel as rapidly as possible for about forty miles, till they were safe from all pursuit, when, after going a short distance further, they came to their camp. For some unknown reason, instead of burning him at the stake, as it was customary to do with captives, his life was spared.

Soon afterward his life was again in danger; a chieftain's daughter who was to be married, wished a human sacrifice, and all the prisoners were brought out for inspection, he among the number. There were nineteen in all, and they passed before this chieftain's daughter, who selected the one who was to be sacrificed. During this ordeal this captive was extremely nervous, and when he came to pass before her he trembled for his life. Fortunately for him, the one chosen was an Englishman only about nineteen years old. Such a scream as he gave, when she laid her hand upon his shoulder, this ancestor said he had never heard before.

The Indians seemed to take quite a liking to this prisoner and his life was spared, although he was carefully watched. He was naturally gifted with great strength and endurance, and was also an excellent shot. He hunted, raced, and fired at a mark with his captors, being very careful never to excel in any of their sports, although able to do so. After living with them about a year they wished him to take a squaw and settle among them, to all of which he gave a quick consent. A wigwam was built for him, a belt of wampum was given him, and a grand jubilee was prepared, but the night before, seeing what he thought to be a favorable opportunity to escape, he started, but was caught the next forenoon and brought back to camp and sentenced to death. At night he was bound with withes and placed in a wigwam between two guards. The guards slept, one on each side. In the early evening he succeeded in freeing one hand and one foot, but before he was able to do more, one of the guards awoke and got up for a smoke; the captive all this time was, apparently, asleep. The guard attempted to taunt him by asking him how he would like fire for breakfast; he was too sound asleep to hear. By and by the guard laid down and went to sleep, when, after much painful labor he succeeded in freeing himself and getting outside the wigwam. It was snowing lightly and there was a little snow on the ground. He fastened his moccasins on, hind-side before, and started. He had gone but a short distance when he came to a spot where a squaw and her papposes were sleeping under a blanket spread on some bushes; he took the blanket and spread it on one of the horses fastened near-by and rode hard all night.

At daylight he dismounted and set the horse on a canter, retraced some of the ground he had traveled, and then climbed up into the top of an immense pine tree, where he was entirely concealed by the branches, and there he spent the day. While there the Indians passed beneath several times, and he heard them tell what they would do with him if they caught him. At dark he started and traveled as fast as he could, and toward daybreak he crept under some logs left by the Indians, and spent the day there. While there some of the Indians crossed the pile of logs without looking for him. At night he started again, and traveled as far as he was able.

The next night while walking in a nearly famished condition across a bog, he fell into the mud nearly up to his neck, and being so weak from fasting, was not able to extricate himself for some time, but at last by the aid of some bushes he succeeded in climbing upon a rock. There he found three crawfishes which he devoured, and after a rest, started on. It was his good fortune, soon after, to find the nest of a wild turkey, filled with eggs, he ate as many as he wanted and rested. When he again started he took the remaining eggs with him. He was now nearly at the settlement. As he approached his home his children were playing near the house, and seeing him coming, ran into the house, saying an Indian was coming. The mother was courageous, and thought if there was but one she was not afraid, so she went to the door to see what he wanted. The children were much surprised to see their mother throw her arms around his neck and kiss him, but not until soap and water had done their work did they recognize their father.

7-8 (III) JAMES TRAVIS, son of James (II) and Mercy (Pearce), was probably born in Brookfield, between 1668 and 1676. He is said to have come to Framingham before its incorporation, June 25, 1700, and to have settled at Salem End on the Ebenezer Harrington place, and afterward lived on the Joseph Bullard place, near Cutler's Mills.

He was in Framingham evidently as late as the early part of 1717, when, in a deed, he is described as of Framingham ; but he was also of Sherborn the same year, when the papers were filed relating to land in Brookfield, and then had no wife, as appears. In 1698 or 1699 he married Mercy Leland of Sherborn, and they had four children. She died between Aug. 16, 1710, and the year 1716. The births of their first three children are recorded in Framingham ; no record has been found there of the birth of John, the fourth child.

In 1734, 1735 and 1736, he signs deeds alone, but Nov. 18, 1745, as appears by records of the First Church of Hopkinton, he married Elizabeth Wesson of Hopkinton. Nov. 1, 1745, he deeded real estate to her, lying in New Sherborn, in anticipation of marriage, it being lot No. 46 in the division lands, and drawn by him in 1715. She signs deeds later, and is referred to as "wife Elizabeth," but in 1760 she signs as a widow.

April 20, 1756, when he must have been full four-score years of age, if not more, he was adjudged to be incapable of caring for himself, and Mr. Thomas Mellen was appointed as his guardian. His estate was in probate in 1756. He was there described as the son of James and Mary.

Feb. 12, 1734, he deeds to his son James, Jr., for parental affection, land in Framingham, on Sudbury River, witnessed by his son Joseph ; and on Dec. 20, 1735, is recorded his deed to his beloved son Joseph, for parental affection, of land in Sherborn. In both of these deeds he is described as of Sherborn.

Children :

- 14- 9 1 Joseph, born in Framingham Dec. 3, 1700 ; married Feb. 28, 1726-7, Mehitable Hagar.

- 20-10 2 James, born in Framingham April 12, 1703; married Feb. 10, 1725, Rebecca Squire. Among the records of the First Church of Holliston is the following entry: "Members of the Congregation who died in Holliston or places adjacent, from Dec. 18, 1753, to Jan. 30, 1754, James Travis."
- 11 3 Mary, born in Framingham Jan. 26, 1705-6.
- 25-12 4 John, born probably in Sherborn Aug. 16, 1710; died July 29, 1789; married in Holliston Jan. 7, 1741-2, Anna or Anne Maxwell.

By second wife:

- 13 5 Elizabeth, born April 16, 1747.

9-14 (IV) JOSEPH TRAVIS, son of James (III) and Mercy or Mary Leland, was born in Framingham, Dec. 3rd, 1700; married Feb. 28, 1726-7, Mehitable Hagar of Watertown, born May 7, 1704; died in Sherborn Dec. 22, 1737, daughter of William and Sarah (Benjamin) Hagar of Watertown. At his marriage Joseph was described as of Sherborn. Mehitable was admitted to full communion in the First Church, Sherborn (Unitarian), June 6, 1736. Joseph married (2nd), by Israel Loring, Mar. 29, 1740, Sarah Dean of Sudbury. She was a daughter of Joseph and Rebecca (Allen) Dean of Sudbury, as appears by Middlesex Probate, Jan. 5, 1722, where, in the will of Joseph Dean, are mentioned sons Pelatiah and Daniel, and daughters Mary and "Sary," each daughter receiving thirty pounds. Mary Dean of Sudbury, by her will Jan. 9, 1767, gave "To my beloved sister Sarah Travis two pounds, and to the Town of Sudbury all my real and personal estate on the east side of the river."

At the hearing April 5, 1768, Daniel Travis, son of deceased's only sister Sarah, objected to the probate of the will. It was passed and approved April 28, 1768. Sept. 2, 1768, Joseph Travis of Natick, and wife Sarah (Dean), appealed to the Governor and Council to break the will. Witnesses, Daniel Travis, Amos Morse, Samuel Morse, Samuel Morse, Jr., and John Cooledge. Inventory, May 21, 1768, £132:13:6. The record shows that in 1751 he joins in sale of land in Sudbury and Weston, and is then described as of Natick. The land belonged to the estate of his wife's father, Joseph Dean, and her brother Pelatiah Dean and sister Mary, spinster, join in the deed. Consideration, £302. It is also recorded, under date of Oct. 5, 1772 (Lib. 73, p. 35), that he deeds his homestead to his son Daniel, reserving life-lease, and both were then described as of Natick. The old archives of the Supreme Court show that judgment was obtained against him for £12, Feb. 4, 1767, by Benjamin Pemberton of Roxbury, and he was then of Natick. It appears by the town records of Natick that he was a constable there in 1762, 1771, 1772, 1777 and 1780. He was a corporal on David Morse's muster roll, Buckminster's Reg't, in 1755, and his son Asa was a private in the same company.

Vol. XCV, p. 323, Mass. Archives, April 19, 1757, shows among the soldiers of Natick, Capt. John Cooledge's company, both Joseph and his son Asa as privates. He was also in the Quartermaster's department at Fishkill, Oct. 14; grade, "Plane maker."

Children :

- 15 1 Sarah, born April 21, 1728; married Sept. 12, 1750, in and of Framingham, Daniel B. Hagar of Weston (published in Weston May 2, 1750), and settled in Lincoln, where he died May 13, 1775; he was baptized Oct. 23, 1726, and was the eighth child of William and Mary (Flagg) Hagar of Waltham and Weston.

Child :

1 Sarah Hagar, born in Weston May 29, 1752.

Daniel Baker, Feb. 10, 1725, Rebecca Squire of Sherborn, and the marriage is recorded in South Framingham and Sherborn. He is then described as of Framingham. Rebecca died a widow, Dec. 8, 1757, and John Wesson, her son-in-law, was appointed administrator Mar. 27, 1758. She was of Sherborn, and was daughter of — and Rebecca Squire, and granddaughter of John and Sarah Squire of Cambridge, who left widow Sarah the use of his whole estate during her life; then to his son Samuel, a double portion of all his estate; to his grandson John Squire, all the land and buildings where his mother Rebecca then lived, if he lived to become of age, only that he must pay to his sister "Rebeckah" Squire ten pounds, to his sister Sarah ten pounds, to Daniel Squire five pounds, and to his uncles Samuel and Daniel Squire five pounds each.

The estate of James Travis was in probate Feb. 11, 1754, Middlesex County, and the record says: "Est. of James Travis of Holliston, wife Rebecca, child Mercy, wife of Robert Maxwell." Middlesex Probate also says "division of Estate of Daniel Travis of Holliston, set off to John Wesson and wife Thankful, real estate £78: 2: 8, including twenty-seven pounds, nine shillings and four pence, before set off to the widow Mercy Maxwell, sister of deceased." There also appears in Middlesex Probate the following petition: —

Hon Sir. These may inform you that according to the best information we have had the only surviving male heir to the estate of the late James Travis, late of Holliston is yet living, he being taken at Fort Wm. Henry, and one of his neighbors, that was taken with him is since returned and left him at Quebeck, and we have since heard of his arrival at Halifax, and we expect that he will return home in a short time. The widow, his mother, Administratrix on said estate, has lately deceased and it is expected that application will be made to yr Honor for a letter of administration on said estate. These are therefore to entreat the delay till more certainty may be obtained. This with all submission from your humble servants.

To the Hon Samuel Danforth Esq, at Cambridge.

It appears by the records that both James Travis and Daniel, his brother, the only sons of James, the son of James, were captured at Fort Wm. Henry Aug. 9, 1757, and that later the estate of Daniel was distributed; neither son had married, so that at date of the above petition it was supposed by many that there only remained of the children of James the daughter Mercy, who had married Robert Maxwell, and the daughter Thankful, who had married John Wesson. Rebecca, a widow, conveyed real estate in Holliston Feb. 27, 1748.

Children :

- 21 1 Mary [Mausy, Marsey, Mercy], born Oct. 26, 1729 ; married Robert Maxwell, who died prior to 1754, as appears by probate records. He was a son of Alexander and Elizabeth Maxwell of Sherborn.

His estate was in probate Dec. 10, 1759, John Wesson, administrator, but evidently his family had evidence of his death prior to Dec. 23, 1757, the date of the foregoing petition. (Vide Mass. Archives, Vol. LXXVII, p. 649-681.) He was under Capt. John Carver.
- 24 4 Thankful, born July 15, 1737 ; married John Wesson.

born. Their children were all baptized in Holliston. She died in Medway, Dec. 4, 1773.

16-35 (V) ASA TRAVIS, son of Joseph (IV), born in Sherborn May 28, 1729 ; died in Deering, N. H., in 1806 ; married in 1753, Sarah Dunton, of Natick, Mass. She was born in Natick " Dec. y^e 26, 1730," and was the daughter of Thomas and Deborah Dunton, of Natick. Her father's estate was in probate in Middlesex County June 20, 1737, value of £627 : 4 : 3, with Ebenezer Felch as administrator, leaving widow Deborah and children Deborah, Isaac, Johanna and Sarah, none of whom were of age at that time ; and July 4, 1737, John Goodnow was appointed guardian of them all. At the distribution of the estate each daughter was given five and one-half acres and thirty-two rods of land, the son eleven and one-quarter acres, and the widow one-third of all the real estate for her dower. The appraisal of the realty was £500, and of the personal £127: 4: 3.

Four years after the death of Thomas, his widow, Deborah, became demented, and Dec. 14, 1741, Eleazer Kingsbury was appointed her guardian, upon the petition of the selectmen of Natick, two of whom appear to have been Indians, and made their mark of bow and arrow, etc., and two other inhabitants of Natick, as she had been found wandering about that part of the county demented. Mr. Robert Cook became bondsman. June 3rd, 1745, Amos Fuller was appointed guardian of Deborah Dunton of Natick, non compos. She died, and Jan. 4, 1774, her son Isaac was appointed administrator of her estate.

Deborah Dunton, the wife and widow of Thomas Dunton, and mother of Sarah (Dunton) Travis, was daughter of Henry and Elizabeth Alden. At his decease, in 1729, he was of Needham, but he was in Billerica before 1685, where he had a wife Deborah, and where is recorded the birth of a child "Allice," 1694: 1: 17. His son, John Alden, was appointed administrator of his estate, as of Needham, Mar. 2nd, 1729.

The inventory was £576: 13. In the settlement of the estate are mentioned sons John and William, and daughters Deborah Dunton and Susannah Alden, and Elizabeth, the mother and relict of deceased. Settlement dated April 12, 1731. It is claimed that this Henry Alden is descended from John and Priscilla of Plymouth fame, but the claim has not been entered upon in this inquiry.

Asa Travis and Sarah Dunton seem to have resided in Natick at marriage, and there is recorded the birth of their son Asa, Jr., Mar. 8th, 1754, whom we take to have been their first child, but no record of the births of their other children has been found. It seems altogether probable, however, that all of their children were born in Natick, then a Plantation, where nearly all the offices seem to have been filled by Indians, and probably many of them could not read or write, as in the instance quoted, where they made their marks. They had nine children who lived to mature age, but a child, aged thirteen months, died June 21, 1768, and a daughter Anna, aged ten years, died Sept. 15, 1775, as recorded in First Parish, Wayland.

He had a sister Zerviah, who came to visit or live with him in 1765, and was warned from Natick, as was the custom in those days with strangers, lest they become paupers. This notice shows that Asa was living in Natick in 1765, and gives the probability that his children were all born there.

No more is known of their residence until he appears among the soldiers of the Revolutionary army, with some of his children, from East Sudbury. He responded to the Lexington Alarm, and his sons Asa, Elijah, Oliver, Aaron and William, were in the ranks from Sudbury. He was a taxpayer in Sudbury in 1779 and 1780. He was a member of a large committee of East Sudbury in 1781, "to see what number of school-houses should be tho't necessary."

In the year 1783 he seems to have taken up his bed and departed from East Sudbury, leaving no trace, of record, behind him, but he appears at once at Deering, N. H., and his sons Asa, Aaron, Oliver, Luther and William, are shortly with him, if not with him at first. His son Elijah does not seem to have gone with his father, as we find him settled at Waltham, Mass., where he married, and where nine of his ten children were born, the tenth having been born after their removal to Weston, Mass., from Waltham. Oliver married Dec. 11, 1783, at Waltham, Milly Gooding of Waltham, and his name appears upon the tax lists of Deering for the years 1794 to 1801 inclusive. Joel, another son of Asa, appears to have remained in or near East Sudbury, now Wayland.

Asa had a daughter Mehitable, who married July 10, 1783, Thomas or Thaddeus Gooding of Waltham. She was then described as of East Sudbury. They went to New Hampshire and settled in Mt. Vernon, where they were known as "Goodwin," and had several children, but the family seems to be extinct. Asa also had a daughter Abigail, who went to Deering with her parents, and there married Stephen Brown.

The names of Asa and Asa, Jr., continue upon the tax lists of Deering from 1783 to 1806, when Asa, Sr., died, aged 77 years. Asa, Jr., continues on tax list, appearing for the last time in 1813, when he removed to Newport, N. H. Asa, the elder, was taxed in East Sudbury in 1779 upon £208. No record has been found of the probate of his estate. His sons Aaron and Luther died in Deering, and William died in Hillsborough. Aaron left quite a family, now represented by several generations. Asa, Jr., died in Newport in 1825. Asa, the elder, was a private in 1755, as appears by Capt. David Morse's muster roll, Buckminster's Reg't, and his father Joseph was a corporal in the same company.

Vol. XCV, p. 323, Mass. Archives, April 19, 1757, shows among the soldiers of Natick, Capt. John Cool-edge's company, both Joseph and his son Asa as privates.

Vol. XIII, p. 94, Mass. Archives, shows that he marched to Lexington from Sudbury, April 19, 1775, in Joseph Smith's company, Barrett's Reg't, upon the Lexington Alarm.

Vol. XVI, p. 14, Mass. Archives, shows that he enlisted April 26, 1775, and served three months. Roll dated Aug. 1, 1775, Capt. Russell's company, Col. J. Brewer's Reg't. He received an order for a "bounty coat," or its equivalent in money, due for eight months' service in 1775, Capt. Thaddeus Russell's company, Col. J. Brewer's Reg't; vide Mass. Archives, Vol. LVII, File 4. He also enlisted Jan. 1, 1776, service 10 mos. 26 days, as private in David Whitney's company, Col. Asa Whitcomb's Reg't, encampment at Ticonderoga, Nov. 27, 1776.

He again enlisted Oct. 12, 1778; discharged Dec. 31, 1778, Edwin Longley's company, Col. Coggs-well's Reg't; time of service, 2 mos., 2 days, for the purpose of guarding and fortifying posts in and near Boston.

He enlisted finally July 28, 1780; discharged July 31, 1780, Rhode Island Alarm, Joshua Fisk's company, Col. Abner's Perry's Reg't, by order of Council, July 22, 1780; Roll dated Dec. 12, 1780.

He conveyed land in East Sudbury, April 6, 1781, consisting of 21 acres, to Ichabod Smith, wife Sarah releasing dower. Witnessed by two of their sons, Asa, Jr., and Oliver. He was then described as of Sudbury.

Sept. 26, 1781, he bought land in Deering, N. H., of Ichabod Smith, consisting of Lot 18, as appears upon the small plan, and upon that lot he is understood to have settled when he went to Deering, the date giving about the time of his removal. This lot of land he sold to Isaac Smith of Deering, April 14, 1790. He paid for this land 500 Spanish milled dollars, and it was one-half in quantity of that 100-lot which Ichabod Smith bought of John Neal of Londonderry, N. H. The place of Asa, Sr., was afterwards owned (1st) by — Atwood, (2nd) by Josiah Bartlett, and (3rd), in 1898, by — McMahan.

Joshua Leland's company, enlisted Oct. 12, 1779; discharged Nov. 10, 1779, company of guards under Maj. Nathaniel Heath, detached by order of Gen. Hancock, to man forts in and about Boston. Vol. XVII, p. 83, private in Capt. Thomas Brintnall's company, Col. Cyprian Howe's Reg't, for service at Rhode Island. Enlisted Aug. 31, 1780; discharged Nov. 1, 1780. Time in service, 2 mos., 5 days, 3 days' travel; raised for 3 mos. to reinforce the Continental Army. Vol. XVII, p. 129, private in Capt. Daniel Bowker's company, Col. Webb's Reg't; enlisted Sept. 23, 1781; discharged

Joshua Leland's company. Vol. XXIX, p. 266, private, roll dated June 10, 1783, Capt. Daniel Bowker's company. He appears upon the tax list of Deering, N. 19-47 (V) DANIEL TRAVIS, son of Joseph (IV), born in Natick, Mass., Oct. 13, 1742; baptized there Oct. 17, 1742, by Rev. Mr. Porter; died there Oct. 21, 1800; buried in Dell Park Cemetery; will dated Aug. 12, 1800, mentions only son Daniel, Jr. He married Sept. 1, 1766, Thankful Watkins of Hopkinton. She married (2nd), Oct. 19, 1803, Bela Orcutt of New Salem, Mass. In his will Daniel mentions wife Thankful, only son Daniel, Betsy Kingsbury and Sally Richardson, and again says, "my three daughters," without giving names. Bela Orcutt and wife Thankful, Jan. 7, 1807, deed to Daniel, Jr., of Natick, land in New Salem. The inventory of Daniel's estate, under date of Nov. 29, 1800, was $2,289.53. He was a constable in Natick in 1769 and 1771, and a tax collector for many years. Thankful, the widow, and her second husband removed to Upton in 1815.

Massachusetts Revolutionary Rolls, Vol. XIII, p. 68, say: Daniel Travis, private, Lexington Alarm Roll, marched on alarm April 19, 1775, Capt. Joseph Morse's company, Col. Samuel Bullard's Reg't; belonged to Natick, service two days. He also served two short terms of 40 days with the militia in Rhode Island in 1777 and 1780, and was a corporal in Capt. Hezekiah Broad's company, Bullard's Reg't in 1777.

He was in Capt. James Mann's company at Bunker Hill Alarm. Natick records say: "Corporal Daniel Travis, Sept. 28, 1776, pays his fine of ten pounds on account of money paid to support the present war with Great Britain," which means paying for a substitute for the year 1776.

There are records of various services performed for the town, the latest date noted being Feb. 13, 1799.

He was conspicuous in town affairs, was selectman and on various parish committees, and one of the committee in 1787 to close up the English Indian proprietorship of the Natick lands.

He also deeds land in Worcester County in 1786, and that year his name appears upon the tax lists of Deering, N. H., with that of his father; he remained a taxpayer there until the year 1813, when his name appears there for the last time. On the 28th Nov., 1813, he purchased a farm in Newport, N. H., of Caleb Atwood of Newport, who later seems to have married for his second wife a daughter of Asa's brother Aaron. Nov. 19, 1815, he conveys his farm to his son Jacob S. Travis, yeoman, then of Newport.

He died at Newport Feb. 20, 1825, and on July 20 following, Ephraim Clark of Newport "respectfully represents that Asa Travis, late of Newport in said county, deceased, leaving Mary Travis, a widow, who declined administration on said estate, having no son in this State. Wherefore the said Ephraim Clark prays that administration of the estate of deceased may be granted to him by giving bonds, as the law directs." Administration was granted to him. On July 20, 1825, the bond for $500 was signed by Ephraim Clark and James Buck, both of Newport, County of Cheshire. Peter Hurd, Elnathan Hurd, and James Wilson, all of Newport, were appointed appraisers, and on October 22, 1825, they reported an estate of $57.78 personal. Mary Travis, widow and relict of Asa Travis, asked for an allowance, and on May 24, 1826, there was "allowed the widow Mary Travis, out of the estate of Asa Travis, late of Newport in said County, deceased, twenty-three dollars." Asa lived in North Newport, two miles from the Center.
